Opening Doors

OpenWays has developed a line-busting solution that removes the frustration associated with traditional hotel check-in.

Offering a Mobile Key that is securely sent over the air to a traveling guest's mobile phone prior to arrival at the hotel not only removes the need to stop at the front desk, but it alleviates any stress the traveler may feel anticipating delays and long waits at their destination hotel.

It's Personal

Personalization is forcing industries to shift their mindsets – from “producer-led segmentation” to “customer driven choice.” Expectations are growing. Consumers are moving beyond material goods and looking for personalized experiences.

Millennials

Line breaks: mil | len| nial
Pronunciation: [mil-len-ee-uh I], adjective, noun

Millennials are not a Western demographic (as perhaps Boomers were) but one that is pervasive across the planet. Millennials come from every continent and constitute an extremely large market particularly in emerging markets such as India, China, the Middle East and South America.

This demographic is emerging and burgeoning with its own set of unique and challenging opportunities for the hospitality sector. The following are some key trends across the hospitality industry which distinctly demonstrate the coming impact of the millennial demographic on the boutique hotel market.

Silver Society

The “silver” consumer segment is one of the biggest and most persistent trends all sectors are currently addressing. Hotels will need to pay particular attention to this growing population segment. They are becoming more brand wise, doing more, living longer & looking for new cultural and event-based experiences.

Authenticity

Travelers today have an increasing thirst for knowledge and learning. They are seeking authentic experiences. Cooking, art & culture, and other special interest themes are gaining attention, as are destinations that protect the environment and endangered species.

Boomer Bucket List

Globally, the UN projects that the population aged

65

and older will rise from

5% | 7% to 16%
in 1950 | in 2000 | in 2050

Within developed economies the proportion of people over

60 years old is expected to rise from

22% to 33%

between 2009 and 2050

In the developing world, it is forecast to grow from

9% to 20%

over the same period.

This demographic is generally “younger” and healthier than in the past and they are looking for fun, adventure, variety, comfort and ease.

Glocal

Glocalization is the concept that in a global market, a product or service is likely to succeed when it is customized for the locale or culture in which it is sold.

Cultural differences, local traditions and customs will need to be considered with more sensitivity in emerging markets.

Anti-Spa

INTERCONTINENTAL HOTELS GROUP is set to launch its brand EVEN in 2014. The first of 100 over five years!

It's not a spa; it's an “all-wellness” property, designed around the four pillars of healthy living: eating well, exercising, rest and productivity.

According to IHG, the fitness centre is “not an afterthought, but the hallmark of the brand.” EVEN will provide food regime, wellness experts and coat racks that morph into pull up bars.

Ecotel

Sustainability & Corporate Social Responsibility are becoming a differentiator in guest decision-making at all levels. More hotels are beginning to recognize their guests' desire to reduce their footprints by investing in greening, not green-washing, their operations.

Emerging Markets

There is a shift in wealth from the west to east.

India and China have captured

15% OF GLOBAL PASSENGER GROWTH

and by

2020

115 million Chinese tourists are expected to travel abroad each year.

by 2030

Emerging markets will have

GLOBAL TRENDS

“The most reliable way to anticipate the future is to understand the present.”

John Naisbitt, Megatrends

Definition of Boutique

Line breaks: bou | tique

Pronunciation: [boo:teek], noun

The word boutique infers a bespoke guest experience based on highly personalized service due to the limited number of guests. Generally it is deemed to be small hotels under 150 rooms, however the definition is transforming to meet the expectations of a new generation of millennial travellers.

Hotel or Hospital?

There is a rising trend among international hospitals to provide “medihotels” for their traveling clients.

In lodgings and accommodations owned and managed by the hospital and located close to the treatment venue, patients and their companions can enjoy the safety, convenience, and amenities of staying close to their medical centre of choice. These lifestyle-equipped facilities offer home-style comfort for longer stays.

Exclusivity

A Story

Unique properties in remote destinations are opening to cater to a new type of globe-trotter wanting to experience nature, but not at the expense of comfort.

Meditation Retreats

Mind Matters

Consumers have caught on to mindful vacations that offer mental restoration. Practices learned on a trip can be incorporated at home to help manage stress, improve cognitive capacity and maintain emotional equilibrium.

Health focused travelers now represent

[Gallup-Healthways Well-being Index]

‘Spas’ are going well beyond the standard facial and offering total wellness designed to promote health, well-being and transformation during your stay and beyond.

Technology Media

“The postmodern consumer’s search for experiences that are engaging, personable, memorable - and above all, authentic is especially strong in tourism.”

UNWTO Tourism

Personalize

More than ever hotel guests desire personalized service. For the boutique hotel market this is the number one reason why boutique hotels are selected over the larger main line hotels. Some may argue new technology depersonalizes the unique experience of a boutique hotel, however we have found the integration of new technology frees the hotel associates up to actually spend more effort and focus ensuring guests’ experiences are personalized, exceptional and memorable. With the millennial demographic in particular, boutique hotels’ biggest marketing rewards are born out of social media.

Ecotel

Sustainability & corporate social responsibility are becoming a differentiator in guest decision-making at all levels.

Responsible Travel

93%

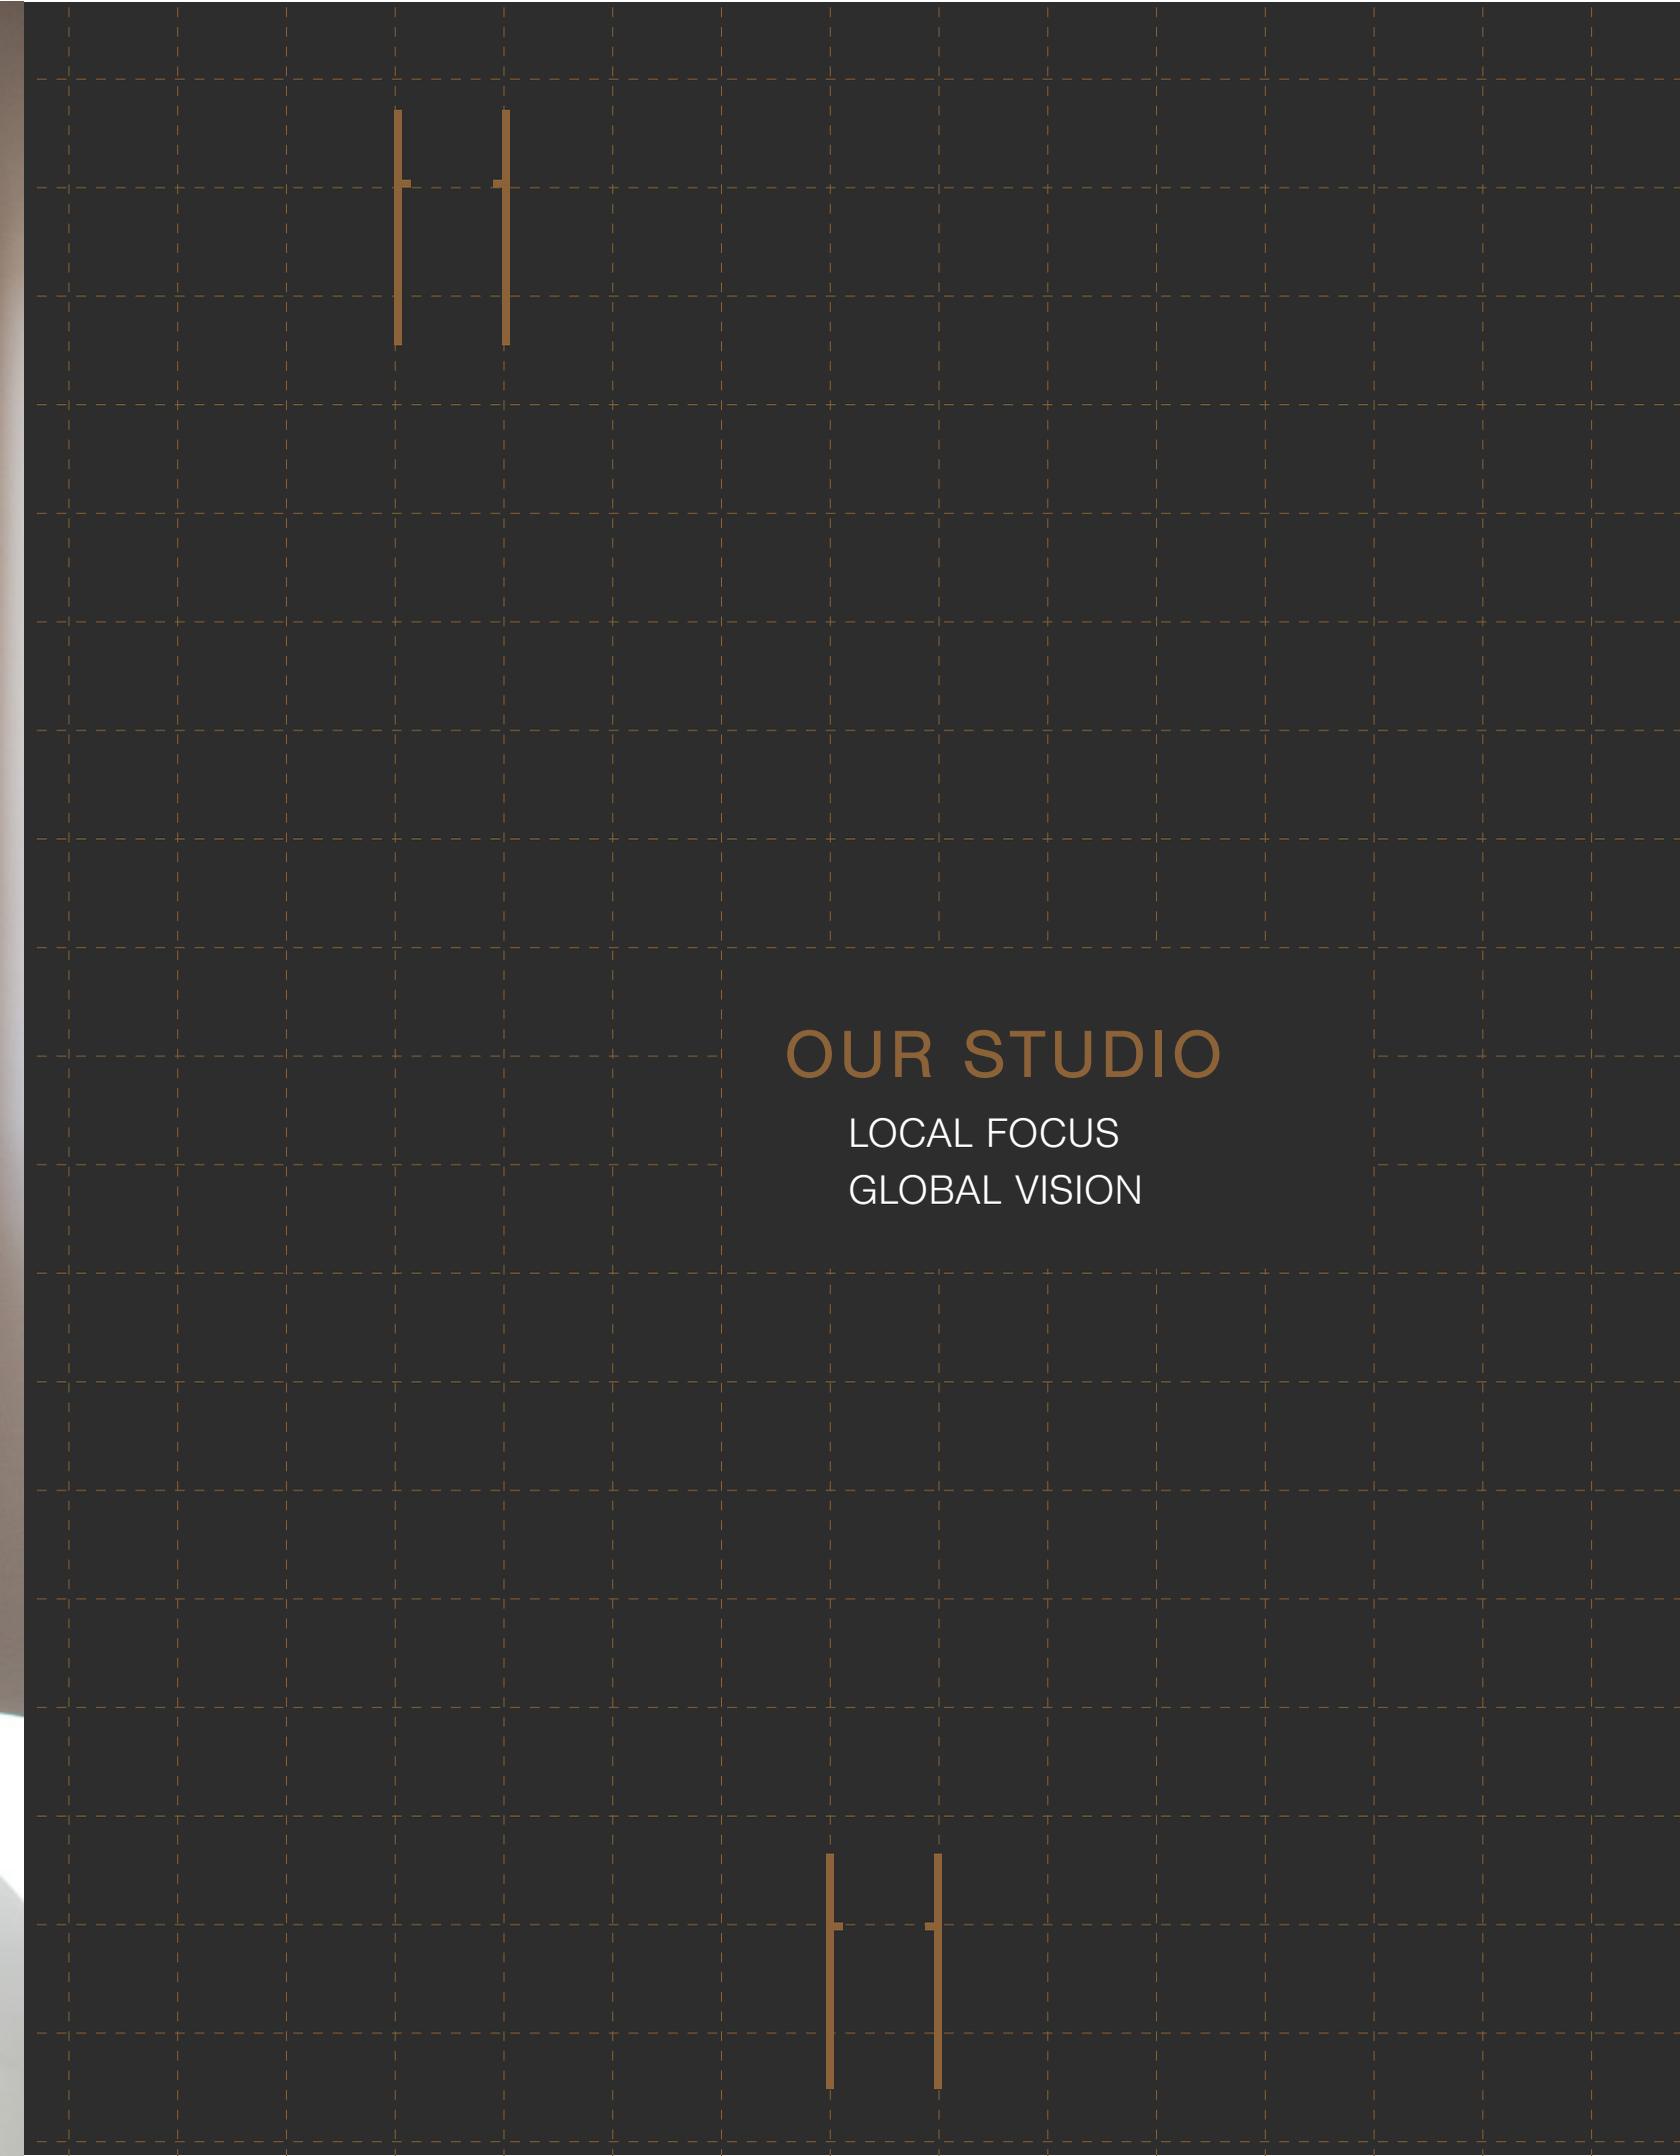

said that travel companies should be responsible for protecting the environment, and 58% said their hotel choice is influenced by the support the hotel gives to the local community, according to the UNWTO.

Authenticity

Millennials come from every continent on our planet yet they all have a common goal for travelling. They travel to have real experiences of other places. Millennials are forward-looking and unlike previous generations of travelers they want to understand the heritage of a place. Most importantly, they want to experience the current cultural diversity of every location they travel to and if the experience starts with their hotel, they will remember and recommend their experience more highly. Boutique hotels should now provide bespoke experiences to millennial guests by integrating strong cultural ties to each property and city they are in.

Inspired by the Royal Visit in 1939, the interior design concept for the Fairmont Hotel Vancouver celebrates the historical significance of this prominent hotel while selectively updating elements within to their original grandeur. Influences of this significant event and long-lasting heritage that followed can be found in the simple details and touches as they relate back to the Hotel's history as a CP Rail hotel with Vancouver as the terminus station.

Capturing the romanticism surrounding both the luxury of travel at the time and the visiting monarchs, the design language is rich, ornate, layered and highly detailed.

Balancing the need for updating the Gold rooms, suites and lounge while paying careful respect to what makes this hotel unique and revered among its competitors within Vancouver and beyond, the design creates a special, one-of-a-kind environment worthy of the hotel's long lasting reputation.

Warm woods, a royal and saturated colour palette, gilded accents and ultimately a homage to the hotel's roots define the interiors as we move forward while celebrating the past.

The restaurant was redesigned with this primary goal: create a new and engaging lounge with a more centralized bar, encouraging a relaxed and entertaining area separate from the remaining dining spaces. In addition to the new bar and lounge area, a chef's table serves dual purpose as a breakfast buffet. New banquette seating provides more intimate niches, while a new private dining area serves as a multi-purpose room used for both meetings as well as private parties.

ARC is located in the Fairmont Waterfront—but it's not the typical hotel restaurant. Bold material choices create a very warm, comfortable and contemporary look. Rich charcoals, hazy grays and mauves with accents of bronze and gold tones create a moody atmosphere. The West Coast feel is reflected

The sprawling space and accentuated arc in the floor plan made for a challenging design. The solution: dramatic lighting, dark tones and an overall rezoning of functions. As a result, this new restaurant was transformed to compliment the celebrated new menu and to offer a new distinctive dining experience for Vancouverites and visiting guests.

Hotel Belmont is a brand that re-envisioned the traditional hotel model in Vancouver, enhancing the value of the building through an innovative and locally inspired approach to design and development. It is all about "attention to detail" and creating a "wow" experience for guests alike. All 18 guestroom types have been designed with two unforgettable schemes creating a retro yet modern aesthetic. Focusing on the main design principles of Creativity, Character, Comfort and Regional Context, our Interior Design concept delivers a balanced and distinct style, unique to Delta Vancouver Suites. Inspired by two compelling elements, Vancouver's strong celebration of nature (mountains and ocean) as well as being located in the heart of Downtown Vancouver - Gastown, this Hotel interior compliments these contrasting factors and gives the guests a truly unique experience. A modern design that allows the interiors of the Hotel to feel Cool, Smart and Comfortable, the guestrooms, lobby and restaurant have a strong sense of the Vancouver culture. This can be seen in the soothing palette of watery deep blues and greys surrounded with wood veneer millwork details. The clean lines of the furniture as well as the neutral tones matched with the smoky dark blues of the fabrics immediately transport the guest to the urban and also natural ambiance that the city is known for. There's a sense of classic warmth that is achieved through the subtlety and organic elements of the design elements balanced with the other finishes in the guestrooms and public areas. These design features reinforce the sense of being enveloped in a cozy and comfortable atmosphere but also full of character. The Delta Vancouver Suites Hotel is the place to relax, and enjoy the Gastown energy, surrounded by the ocean and mountain views but also celebrates the creative and unique culture that make this property so sought after.

Set in the heart of Calgary, it is the city's oldest and most esteemed hotel, celebrating its centennial in 2014. The renovation included a transformation of 205 well-appointed guestrooms and heritage suites, as well as guestroom corridors. Each of the rooms is quite varied in layout and features which provides guests with a sense of uniqueness and adds to the charm of the property.

Conceptually, the driving force was to celebrate the beauty of this traditional landmark and further complement its rich history and architecture with elegant furnishings and finishes while incorporating the essence of the city. Original features such as the high ceilings with medallions, wall friezes and tall windows were refreshed and showcased. A feeling of contemporary sophistication was created with the layering of luxurious soothing tones and opulent textures. A look to Calgary's cowboy past was achieved with the use of masculine cognac and grey leathers, metal nailhead details and historic artwork, which was softened with warm neutrals and refined wood tones. Furniture pieces were designed to embody the fine balance between classic form and contemporary finishes. The small-scale bathrooms were reimagined with a focus on tailored and sophisticated finishes that combine the sparkle of chrome accents, white marble tile and dramatic stone countertops. The chosen scheme of black, creme, taupe and olive green – accompanied by a selection of stone, reclaimed wood, timber and bronze – sets the ambience exuding elegance, exclusivity, sophistication and sustainability. The Toronto Athletic Club occupies three of the top floors in a Toronto-Dominion Centre tower. Stratus, the bar and restaurant of the “Club Above” in the heart of the Financial District, needed a renovation that would transform a dated, unmemorable interior into a destination befitting the iconic modernity of Ludwig Mies van der Rohe’s Toronto-Dominion Centre architecture. The desired ambience was elegant yet relaxed: the space would be rented out for events such as weddings, but at the same time the club’s owners wanted members to put on casual clothes after a workout and feel comfortable dining there. The owners also sought a design that would make it possible to hold multiple concurrent events. In less than 3,000 square feet, the design team created a versatile sequence of varied yet aesthetically unified zones. From the elevator, a spectacular view to the exterior opens up through the central bar area, while lattice-like bronze metal screens with mirrors inserted into them layer a veiling of privacy over seating areas on either sides of the space. A 90-degree turn leads into the dining area, which can be subdivided into two rooms and/or closed off from the bar by pivoting doors. A 10-seat private dining room partially enclosed by curving, bottle-lined glass screens adds to the range of spaces. Prior to the renovation, Stratus was a members-only venue serving breakfast, lunch and early dinners. Now open to the public, and open later in the evening, its revenue has doubled.

SilverBirch Hotels & Resorts is one of Canada's leading hotel and resort management companies, with over 20 hotels across the country. One of their properties, the Regina Inn, was in need of a massive renovation; it would become the first DoubleTree by Hilton in Canada. DoubleTree by Hilton is a fast-growing global collection of more than 350 upscale hotels in gateway cities, metropolitan areas and vacation destinations across six continents.

Combining SilverBirch's desire for a fun environment with DoubleTree by Hilton's inspired and rewarding brand was the ultimate objective of the project. The renovations included the entire hotel, from lobby, reception, restaurant, ballrooms, guestrooms, fitness area and conference center to exterior façade work. This meant closing the existing hotel for an 11-month construction period.

2014 IDIBC Award of Merit

Comprised of 85 contemporary green residences in Vancouver's West End, the Alexandra's provides exceptional views and a strong connection to English Bay and Stanley Park. The project's interior spaces were influenced by; the clients' desire to deliver a modern, elegant and timeless building; the importance of contributing to an already diverse and dynamic neighbourhood, and the revitalization of 1930's heritage façade. It was imperative for the colour palette of the lobby, amenity spaces, and suites to have a unique sensitivity to the environment and site surroundings.

The direction for the vibrant use of colour in the common areas is set by the lobby's art installation (a partial recreation of a lost oil painting, entitled 'Nostalgia'). The suites' two colour schemes aim to bring nature's palette indoors with hues of the West Coast sand, sea, wood and stone. The neutral tones help to blur the line between interior and exterior space and allow the nearby ocean, mountain and city views to command attention.

CITY GARDEN

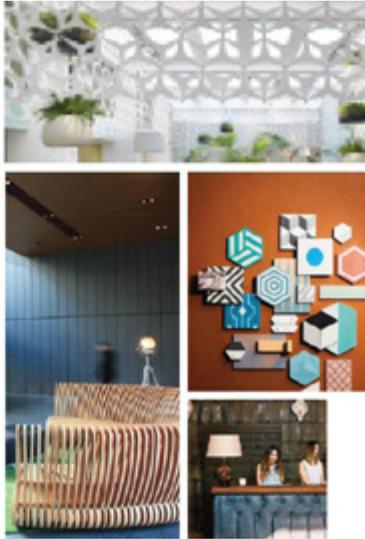

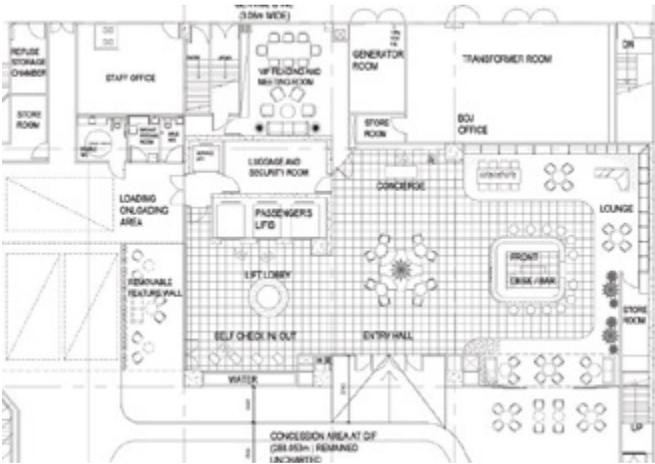

LOCATION	HONG KONG
COMPLETION	IN PROGRESS
CLIENT	SINOLAND

The interior design concept for the City Garden Hotel is inspired by a rather romantic and nostalgic notion of winding back the clock to Hong Kong's past and its small port thriving in trade and commerce. This historical concept segues perfectly to present day Hong Kong as the city continues to lead the world in finance and international trade attraction both business and vacation travelers to this cosmopolitan city.

Hong Kong translated into English means Fragrant Harbour. How the city acquired its name is unclear yet one explanation in particular captured our imagination: Hong Kong used to be a major harbour for transporting agarwood, a resinous aromatic wood used in incense and perfume. This popular commodity scented the harbour air, hence naming the city, Hong Kong.

What must have been an impressive vista of Hong Kong harbour filled with ancient Chinese sailing ships and early European vessels inspires a sense of calm and stillness as the shops serenely float in place, a sensibility that is carried through the new interiors of the hotel.
